Historic Character Meets Modern Future

Steeped in the history of 1930’s architecture and a legacy of local industry, 1401 West Morehead is a space for innovation to bubble over. Preserved art-deco architectural details whisper of the building’s storied past, once the headquarters of The Coca-Cola Bottling Company Plant until 1974.

With a modern transformation in its near future, there are new stories to be told around every corner. This historical gem is primed for a leading role in West Charlotte’s future as a live, work, play hub.
